DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-4, 6-20, 22-27, 30, 32, and 33 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Initially, the amendments to claims 1, 2, 18, and 19 overcome the rejections made in the previous Office Action under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph. The rejections under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph are withdrawn.

Independent claims 1, 2, 18, 19, and 27 each require the average gain factor applied to the input signal is such that the average gain signal is less than 3dB. As indicated in the previous Office Action, Goldstein discloses the average gain factor in the preferred range of the invention is around 20 dB (see Fig. 7, at the preferred compression ratio range of -5 dB to 5 dB, the RMS gain is approximately 20 dB). Similarly, Allen et al. disclose a maximum gain factor limit of 15 dB (column 7, lines 10-12). There is no teaching or suggestion in Goldstein or Allen et al. to limit the average gain factor so that the average gain factor for the first and second ranges is less than 3 dB.

Regarding claim 32, Goldstein does not disclose or suggest a determinator for determining a maximum level of input and equating the maximum input level with the upper edge of the first range. Allen et al. disclose determining a maximum level of input, but suggest that the upper edge of a first range should be set so that the upper level is exceeded 10% of the time (thus the upper edge is lower than the maximum input level, see column 8, lines 29-31).

Regarding claim 33, Goldstein discloses (Fig. 5) that the gain function remains at 20 dB below 60 dB SPL. Similarly, Allen et al. disclose the gain function remains linear at a level GL below a particular breakpoint level BK (see Fig. 5 and column 8, lines 12-34). There is no suggestion in Goldstein Allen et al. to include a fourth range juxtaposed at a lower boundary value to the second range where the gain factor in the fourth range is substantially zero.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
